PURPOSE AND SUMMARY

H.R. 7779, the “DHS Restrictions on Confucius Institutes and Chinese Entities of Concern Act,” prohibits the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) from providing Science and Technology (S&T) or Research and Development (R&D) funds to any United States institution of higher education that has a relationship with a Confucius Institute funded by the Government of the People’s Republic of China (PRC). It also requires any U.S. institution of higher education seeking or receiving S&T or R&D funds from DHS to notify the Department of any relationship with a “Chinese Entity of Concern.”

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

Starting in the early 2000s, the PRC created Confucius Institutes where Chinese language instruction was offered at U.S. institutions of higher education as well as academic institutions in 160 countries. While these institutes were marketed as a mechanism to promote Chinese language and culture, support local Chinese teaching internationally, and facilitate cultural exchanges, evidence emerged that the Chinese government sought to leverage the Institutes in ways that pose risks to United States national security.¹ Confucius Institutes are almost entirely controlled by the Chinese government and pose risks in a variety of ways from stifling academic freedom to aggressive talent-recruitment programs, among others.² For example, in 2019, the Department of Justice lodged a complaint against Zhongsan Liu, along with several accomplices, for attempting to convince at least 7 U.S. universities to sponsor visas for purported Chinese research scholars who in reality aimed to recruit American science talent. The group of conspirators were successful in at least one attempt to defraud a targeted university. The complaint also alleged that the head of the University of Massachusetts Boston’s Confucius Institute offered to assist Mr. Liu in the alleged fraud.³ In March 2022, Mr. Liu was convicted of participating in a conspiracy to defraud the United States by obstructing the lawful functions of the U.S. Departments of State and Homeland Security and with committing visa fraud.⁴

In response, the Fiscal Year (FY) 2019 and FY 2021 National Defense Authorization Acts restricted Department of Defense funding from going to United States institutions of higher education that host Confucius Institutes.⁵ Following enactment of this legislation, Confucius Institutes began to close their doors across America. There were 113 active Confucius Institutes in 2018, and 79 were closed between 2018 and 2021.⁶ As of July 2022, 16 Confucius Institutes remained open in the United States.⁷ With this trend toward ending Confucius Institutes, there is concern that the PRC has alternate potential avenues to influence American academia and society.

H.R. 7779 seeks to bolster homeland security against potential intelligence, national security, and cyber espionage threats posed by Confucius Institutes and is an extension of the limitations in place at the Department of Defense since 2019. H.R. 7779 restricts DHS S&T and R&D funding from United States institutions of higher education that have a relationship with a Confucius Institute and establishes a reporting requirement for institutions that have relationships with a “Chinese Entity of Concern.” Chinese Entities of Concern include Chinese universities that are involved in the implementation of Military-Civil Fusion; participates in the PRC’s military industrial base; or provides support to any security, defense, police, or intelligence organization of the PRC or the CCP.

H.R. 7779 recognizes that the Chinese Entity of Concern reporting requirement may place an additional burden upon universities, so the bill requires DHS to provide technical assistance to colleges and universities in carrying out this requirement with particular attention to historically Black colleges and universities and other minority-serving institutions. With respect to the funding restrictions on United States institutions with relationships with Confucius Institutes, the bill provides the Secretary of Homeland Security the authority to issue a waiver from funding restrictions for no longer than 1 year, should the Secretary deem it is in the interest of America’s national security. Should such a waiver authority be utilized, the Secretary must provide written notification to the Committee on Homeland Security of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs of the Senate regarding such issuance or renewal, including a related justification.

SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS OF THE LEGISLATION

Section 1. Short title

This section states that the Act may be cited as the “DHS Restrictions on Confucius Institutes and Chinese Entities of Concern Act”.

Sec. 2. Limitations on Confucius Institutes’ host schools

This section establishes the definitions for “Chinese Entity of Concern,” “Confucius Institute,” and “relationship.”

This section requires that an institution of higher education which has a relationship with a Confucius Institute is ineligible to receive S&T or R&D funds from DHS so long as the institution maintains such relationships. It also requires institutions of higher education which have relationships with a Chinese entity of concern to disclose such relationships to the Department when seeking S&T or R&D funds.

This section further requires the Secretary of Homeland Security to provide technical assistance, upon request, to institutions of higher education relating to compliance with this Act. In carrying out this subsection, the Secretary is directed to provide particular attention to historically Black colleges and universities and other minority-serving institutions who may experience additional burden. It is the Committee’s intent that the restrictions and reporting requirements established in H.R. 7779 are implemented in a timely manner.

Additionally, this section grants the Secretary of Homeland Security the authority to waive, on a case-by-case basis, and for a period of not more than 1 year, the funding restrictions on institutions of higher education if the Secretary determines it is in the national security interests of the United States. The Secretary shall provide written notification of the waiver, and any renewal of the waiver, to the Committee on Homeland Security of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs of the Senate (the Committees).

Finally, not later than 18 months after the date of the enactment of this Act, and annually thereafter, the Secretary of Homeland Security is required to report to the Committees on the implementation of this Act.
